EDITORIAL COMMENT.

SIGNS OF IMPROVED BUSINESS.

Mr. Harriman says the country is all right, and he gives evidence of his confidence in the future by ordering a beginning made on the construction and equipment of a complete set of railroad shops for the Union Pacific at Omaha, quotes the San Francisco Call. There is no longer any difficulty about money. Railroad builders are able to secure all they need. It was only the other day that George Gould borrowed $10,000,000 to complete the Western Pacific. Harriman's proposal to authorize a new Union Pacific bond issue has been received so favorably as to compel the belief that the business corner has been turned. It is deemed prudent to go ahead with improvements that were halted last fall. The Brooklyn Eagle points to the "remarkable record of the money market for ten days with these specifications:

"The city is now selling $40,000,000 of revenue bonds at 3 1/4, 3% and 2 1/2 per cent. The Pennsylvania railroad company has floated a $40,000,000 bond issue on fair terms and it was eagerly taken. The financial district is yet twittering over the promptly successful flotation of Interborough three year 6 per cent notes to the amount of $25,000,000. The Union Pacific railroad company has authorized a bond issue of $100,000,000, of which $50,000,000 is to be offered immediately, and over in New Jersey the Public Service Corporation has authorized an issue of $50,000,000 secured by a blanket mortgage on its property, both of which acts are taken in the assurance of a successful flotation. Bronx Valley sewer bonds at 4 1/2 per cent to the extent of $1,000,000 were eagerly purchased at a total premium of $40,000, while White Plains village bonds were sold at $110. This is a record of ten days."

These facts are proof that capital is once more eager to invest and that rates of interest are moderate. It may be added that the earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the month of March showed an advance of nearly $1,200,000 over the preceding month. The market for iron products is regarded as the best barometer of trade.

With the current issue of the Round Mountain Nugget, that valuable newspaper enters upon its third year. It has been one of the greatest factors in portraying the great possibilities of the famous camp whose name it bears. Its editor, Henry Bartlett, is one of the most genial gentlemen and is recognized in the newspaper world as one of the most forceful and brilliant writers in the galaxy of literary luminaries with which the West abounds. Here's to you, Henry. May the Nugget become a veritable volcano of wealth, whose crater will continue to belch forth the fiery editorials that have in the past set the world ablaze.

PREPARING FOR FOURTH OF JULY

COMMITTEES HOLD MEETING AND DECIDE UPON A TWO-DAY CELEBRATION.

The general committees appointed from the Miners' Union, Elks and Eagles, and who have been at work preparing for the Fourth of July celebration, met at the Elks lodge rooms last night and reported as to their progress. The celebration will be a grand two days' affair and the committees are sparing no means to make every moment of the 4th and 5th of July interesting to all.

The celebration will start off with a grand ball, to be held on the night of July 3d, at the Miners' hall. On the fourth there will be a parade, followed by literary exercises to be held at the junction of Main street and Brougher avenue. The general sports follow and in the afternoon there will be a ball game. Fireworks will be set off from one of the surrounding mountains in the evening.

The drilling contests will begin on the morning of the fifth and there will be both double and single hand drill contests. Then there will be bicycle races, followed by horse races. In the afternoon there will be another ball game.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a goddess of liberty and it was decided to have a voting contest and have the most popular young lady in this city act in that capacity. Ballot boxes will be placed in several of the stores and the result of the ballots will be published daily.

LOOKING FOR WIDOW.

RENO, Nev., June 3.—The friends of the late Joe Simpson, who was lynched by being hanged to a telegraph pole at Skidoo, for shooting a saloon man of that place, are now trying to find his widow. It is stated that he left over $25,000, and that his wife will receive the entire estate if she will only apply for it.

It is stated by friends of the woman that she is in Portland, Oregon.

NEVADA MOUNTAIN OVERTOPS SHASTA

RENO, Nev., June 3.—Mt. Cedar, higher than Shasta and with a lake in its crater half a mile across, has been discovered by State Engineer Nicholas and will soon find its place on the relief maps of Nevada. Nicholas, arriving in Reno today from the White Pine country, said that the mountain, situated 56 miles from Ely, had been regarded for years as inaccessible and that geological surveyors had overlooked it when making annual tours of the intermountain country.

Nicholas declared that prospectors who climbed Mt. Cedar last week found one side so steep that a stone pitched over the edge fell 8000 feet without striking the surface.

Valuable water rights that may be developed by mining interests at Ely are to be prospected for. Nicholas will explore Mt. Cedar personally in a few weeks.

This is the second large mountain reported by the State engineer.

TONOPAH LUMBER COMPANY UPHOLD

CARSON CITY, Nev., June 3.—The Supreme Court has handed down an opinion in the case of Tonopah Lumber Company against M. M. Riley and E. Marks, conducting a business under the firm name of Casino Athletic Club of Tonopah. The plaintiff sued for a bill of $14,980.09, due for lumber used in the construction of the "fight arena" at Tonopah and in the District Court recovered judgment for the amount. The defendants appealed from this judgment, but the Supreme Court affirmed it. The opinion was per curiam.

MINING UNDER HIGH PRESSURE

WONDERFUL WORK OF MINERS UNDER EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES.

Two hundred and twenty tons of ore that, according to grab samples, will average $100 per ton, is the record of the Mohawk Combination Leasing Company for the first day's work, and that means $22,000, says the Goldfield Tribune.

It is remarkably good mining to get that quantity of ore out of a shaft where the workings have been abandoned for some time. Wonders can be accomplished by miners in a gold camp under exceptional circumstances but perhaps never before in the history of mining has a lease starting up for a life of only four days been capable of making such a record, both in regard to tonnage and gross value of the ore.

Promptly at 1 o'clock Monday morning work was started and Tuesday morning at the same hour the reports showed that 220 tons of high grade had been hoisted, loaded on cars and billed to the sampler.

The tally sheet showed that no waste was hoisted. None will be, but hundreds of tons of medium grade ore, as well as mill rock, will be left in the stopes and drifts. The pay roll shows that there are 175 miners and top men on the list. Of this number, twelve are working on machine drills. Scores of hand steel men are also busy in different places in the mine, and each one is working as though his life depended on what he could accomplish for the company in the allotted four days. In places miners are crowded together so that it is difficult to swing a hammer squarely on the head of the drill, but they are accurate. If there is an accidental slip and the body of an adjoining workman or the hammer lands on the hands of the one holding it, no time is lost in idle apologies, and away they are at it again. The muckers who push the cars and do the shoveling are working even harder than the miners in the stopes, as there can not be any accumulation of ore.

If such a picture could be reproduced in a cinematograph it would make a hit throughout the world. It is one that cannot be duplicated in any gold or silver mining camp in the world outside of Goldfield. Only expert miners are employed, under expert direction. All the ore is coming through one shaft, and the little engine is kept up to full capacity all the time.

Monday morning the first man was lowered into the mine and it was only twenty minutes later when the first car of ore was hoisted to the surface. Forty-six men were employed on that first shift, and when the other three shifts got to work there were nearly four times that number. All plans had been carefully prepared by Manager Fred Seibert, and as miners were lowered below they fitted into their places as though they had been working on the job for months. There was not a single hitch in the first day's work, and there is not liable to be any during the life of the lease.

Manager Seibert, under whose direction the work is being carried on, said last night:

"From the grab samples taken in the first day's production of 220 tons, the assays indicate that the ore will average $100. Whether this average can be maintained, I cannot say, but we will keep trying, and if we fail it will not be through any fault of mine."
